

THE INSTITUTE FOR MONGOLIAN STUDIES (IMS)

About the Institute:

It was first established in 2000 as the Centre for Mongol Studies and changed its name in 2011 to the Institute for Mongolian Studies and expanded its operations. The purpose of the IMS is to advance the knowledge and understanding of Mongolian cultures and regions, across all time periods. This is accomplished by supporting Mongolian Studies at academic institutions Mongolia and abroad.

The Institute's primary objectives are: to develop, lead and direct Mongolian Studies within the National University of Mongolia; to manage, connect, plan and provide information to facilities, research centres and researchers who are working in fields related to Mongolian studies; and to implement national and international projects and support Mongolian Studies in foreign countries.

Collaboration:

Activities:

- Inviting foreign Mongolist researchers to work in Mongolia.
- Preparing future Mongolists and run special programs for them.
- Organizing seminars and the international symposium on a regular basis that address the issues Mongolian studies face.
- Implementing projects related to Mongolian studies.
- Supporting Mongolian Studies in foreign countries.

In addition, we have been working to increase the number and quality of printings, research journal such as the "Acta Mongolica" and "Mongolia: Area and culture studies" that are edited and run by well-known researchers from both Mongolian and foreign universities.

We are also strengthening and expanding our collaboration with a range of research communities, both domestic and abroad. We look forward to the opportunity to work with you in further advancing the scope of Mongolian Studies.
