

NUM-IKCU JOINT INSTITUTE FOR TURKOLOGY RESEARCH

About the Center:

Established with the aim of conducting research and practice focused on Turkish language, culture, history and folklore, the Institute of Turkology Studies contributes to the studies of Turkology Science with field studies and scientific activities organized in partnership with NUM-IKCU every year. Since its establishment in 2019, our institute has been continuing its academic studies on language, history and culture both in Mongolia and Türkiye.

Research/development:

Carrying out research and excavation works, symposiums, conferences in cooperation with various official institutions of Mongolia and Türkiye.

Research areas:

Turkish and Mongolian language, history, culture and folklore.

Our Institute aims to contribute to the accumulation of scientific knowledge in this field by conducting various interdisciplinary researches on Turkish and Mongolian language and culture. Within our institute, comprehensive and in-depth research is carried out in various fields such as Turkish and Mongolian language, literature, history, art and culture. In addition to these activities, various training programs are organized to contribute to the training of young researchers. Our vision is to promote the cultural and historical values of the Turkic world in the international arena and to contribute to scientific studies in this field. To this end, we aim to raise awareness on Turkish and Mongolian culture and language by participating in events organized on international platforms and carrying out international projects. Also to conduct research on Turkish language, history and culture in Mongolia.

Address:

NUM-IKCU Joint Institute for Turkology Research, Central library of the National University of Mongolia, floor 6, no 611, 13330, Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia

The official responsible:

Director: Ankhbayar Danuu

E-mail: mogoltarihi@gmail.com

Mobile Phone: 976-88108306